Background Information These records come from the OCC's Bank Organization and Structure division, which was renamed the Licensing division in the mid-1990s. The Licensing division receives, analyzes, and decides filings to establish, change the structure of, or change the activities performed by national banks, federal savings associations, and federal branches and agencies of foreign banks. The licensing division works closely with the agency's supervisory and legal divisions to render independent decisions, supported by a strong record of facts and in compliance with applicable laws and regulations.
