Records Pertaining to the Military Service of Buffalo Soldiers

On the July 28, 1866, Congress passed an act that authorized the Army to raise six regiments of African-American soldiers. These six regiments later became known as the Buffalo Soldiers, men who served with distinction on the Western frontier of the United States. The U.S. Army organized the African-American soldiers into four infantry regiments and two cavalry regiments. The newly organized cavalry regiments were designated the Ninth and Tenth Cavalry. The infantry regiments were designated the Thirty-eighth, Thirty-ninth, Fortieth and Forty-first Infantry. In late 1869, the U.S. Army reorganized the infantry regiments. The Thirty-eighth and Forty-first Infantry regiments became the Twenty-fourth Infantry regiment. The Thirty-ninth and Fortieth Infantry regiments became the Twenty-fifth Infantry regiment.
