

Chris Stolkey

Biography

Chris Stolkey is Vice President and Chief Security Officer for BAE Systems, Inc.; a position he has held since December 2022. In this role, he is charged with the implementation and execution of the company's Special Security Agreement (SSA) and has overall responsibility for industrial security, international security, physical security, and cybersecurity assurance.

Prior to this position, he was Vice President and Deputy Chief Security Officer for BAE Systems, Inc., supporting the execution of the SSA and ensuring compliance with government policy, risk management and policy development. He has also supported multiple sectors and business areas within the company through Security and Procurement positions.

Chris is deeply connected to BAE Systems' mission: We protect those who protect us.® He served in the U.S. Army for nearly 22 years, holding positions such as Platoon Leader, Executive Officer, and Company Commander. He retired from the Reserves in 2020.

Chris is an Industrial Security Professional (ISP®) and Certified Protection Professional (CPP®). He received his Bachelor's in Political Science from the University of Michigan and his Master's in Business and Organizational Security Management from Webster University.