Record Group 217: Records of the Accounting Officers of the Department of the Treasury
WNRC Project

1. Spanish American War Claims, 1905-1912.

Arranged chronologically by year, and thereunder alphabetically by name of claimant. Correspondence of the Auditor for the War Department that includes records from various offices of the Department of the Treasury concerned with the settlement of accounts and to recover monies due the United States arising from obligations incurred during the Spanish-American War. The claims were filed against officers who deserted, had been court-martialed, or received dishonorable discharges following activities in which they were involved during the War. Trifolded envelopes give name, rank, serial number, and the amount of funds to be recovered by the Treasurer of the U.S. for account settlement.

In general, Treasury Department accountable officer's claims files for 1900-39 were disposable (II NNA 224). In II-NNA- 1186, claims for service in the Spanish-American War were scheduled for disposal. Genealogical information concerning the service of individuals, including information on desertions and courts-martial is available in the military service records in NARA custody.

Volume: 1 cubic foot
WNRC Acc. No. 217-66A0137, subgroup B

Disposition: TEMPORARY. Destroy upon approval of this schedule.

2. Register of Black Hawk War Claims, 1833-1835.

Arranged in ten subject sections (claimant, letters received, commissioned officers, etc.). Sections relating to the payment of claims are arranged alphabetically by claimant. Attached to the spine of this bound volume is a red sticker labeled "117".

This journal/ledger has been rebound in a standard GAO ledger book but is composed of the original registers and notebooks of the Military Auditor sent to Illinois, Missouri, Michigan, and Indiana between 1833 and 1835 to disburse funds resulting from claims during the Black Hawk Indian War (1832). These disbursements were authorized by Congress February 19, 1833, to reimburse soldiers and citizens of those states and territories for horses, arms, forage, and accouterments expended or lost during the War. The volume is subdivided into the following subjects: Register of claims; names of claimants, alphabetical; letters; abstracts of claims examined; property returns; appraisal of horses; commissioned officers in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan Territory, and Missouri [Page 12 of this section lists the staff of the 4th Illinois Regiment, Richland County Company, commanded by Capt. Abraham Lincoln.]; forage procured; miscellaneous purchases; and payments for forage. Size of the register is approximately 16 x 10 inches, 3.5 inches thick.

The ongoing litigation involving many Indian tribes has resulted in both sides of litigations seeking information which NARA sometimes cannot provide. Therefore, any fiscal records relating to Native Americans are important. Tribes, attorneys, and individuals continue on trying to ascertain if the Federal Government made payments to various Indian tribes. Much of this research is being completed for legal purposes.

Volume: 1 cubic foot
WNRC Acc. No.: 217-66K0137, subgroup D

Disposition: PERMANENT. Transfer to the National Archives immediately.

3. War Loans to Allied Nations, 1916-1919.

Arranged by country, thereunder by date of settlement. Five 16" x 8.5" metal containers contain trifolded envelopes tied with string from the Auditor for the Treasury, Division of Bookkeeping and Warrants, containing Certificates of Settlement, correspondence between various offices in the Treasury, diplomatic notes exchanged between embassies in Washington and the Treasury and State Departments, and notices of claims from the Auditor for purposes of extending credit to allied nations in the prosecution of the First World War (pursuant to section 2 of an act of Congress approved September 24, 1917). Correspondence from Great Britain, France, Italy, Belgium, Russia, Romania, Greece, Liberia, Cuba, Slovakia, and Serbia. Certificates show name of country, amounts and date of settlement, and to whom the funds are to be paid (usually the ambassador in Washington).

The information contained in these records duplicates "Country Files" in RG 39, Records of the Bureau of Accounts (Treasury).

Volume: 2 cubic feet
Accession Number: 217-66I0137, subgroup A (partial; see Contracts below).

Disposition: TEMPORARY. Destroy upon approval of this schedule.

4. Contracts for Special Paper and Samples, 1879-1920.

The collection in one metal container consists of original contracts and paper/product samples for an ongoing contract between the Treasury Department and the Crane Paper Company for the supply of special paper for the printing of government bonds and other important/official papers.

The samples, contracts, and correspondence may serve to illustrate an important period in paper-making technology in the late nineteenth century and government procurement of special papers the period.

Volume: 1 cubic foot
WNRC Acc. No.: 217-66I037, subgroup A (partial; see War Loans above).

Disposition: PERMANENT. Transfer to the National Archives immediately.

5. Register of Annual Tax for National Bank Circulation, 1919-1921.

Arranged chronologically by "quarter ending," and thereunder by date within the quarter. These three bound registers of Semi-Annual Tax on National Bank Circulation from the Auditor of the Treasury Department each contain one section of entries of the "Average amount of National Bank Notes in circulation for the six months ending..., and the duty paid thereon." Columns show the average amounts in circulation, the duties paid, and the number, date, and issuing bank of the certificates of deposit.

The volumes, typewritten, give no information as to the relationship of this volume to the functions of the Auditor, nor can significant information be derived from it. Administrative value would seem to have been served as soon as the next volume was prepared, and any remaining legal value is unlikely.

Volume: 1 cubic foot
WNRC Acc. No. 217-66G0137, subgroup D

Disposition: TEMPORARY. Destroy upon approval of this schedule.

6. Records of Fishing Vessel Allowances, 1837-1857.

Arranged chronologically by district. These records in ½ cubic feet boxes consist of receipts, certificates, and lists pertaining to allowances (bounties) paid to vessel owners involved in the fishing of cod during a twenty year period in the early to mid-nineteenth century. The documents are in trifolded format (many with sleeves) and include lists indicating the name of the vessel, the name of the vessel master, the dates of the sailings, home port, the total tonnage of fish taken, and weight of the vessel (and occasionally names of the crews).

These files record an interesting aspect of government involvement in promotion of the fishing industry against foreign competition in the early to mid-nineteenth century. They should be a source of interest for historians studying the fishing industry and natural resources of the country for the period.

Volume: 14 cubic feet
WNRC Acc. No. 217-66P0137, subgroup B

Disposition: PERMANENT. Transfer to the National Archives immediately.

7. 4th Auditor Miscellaneous Records (War Department), 1918-1926.

Arranged by claim number in small manila envelopes. These files relate to a wide variety of claims against the Federal government which were allowed or disallowed. They include correspondence with individuals, companies, and state agencies. Many of the claims derived from the purchase of liberty bonds during World War I; claims for compensation for lands sold or given away by the Federal government and then repossessed; and claims from Native Americans. The individual record containers have a marker bearing the letter "C" which presumably may have been an internal indicator that the claims are from civilians; all of the claims are non-military.

Native American claims should be retained for possible litigation use. The ongoing litigation involving many Indian tribes has resulted in both sides of litigations seeking information which NARA sometimes cannot provide. Therefore, any fiscal records relating to Native Americans are important. Tribes, attorneys, and individuals continue on trying to ascertain if the Federal Government made payments to various Indian tribes. Much of this research is being completed for legal purposes.

Volume: 115 cubic feet
WNRC Acc. No.: 217-66A0137

Disposition: PERMANENT. Transfer to the National Archives immediately. Retain records of Indian claims and dispose of temporary claims during archival processing.

8. Registers of State War Claims (Auditor, War Department/House Appropriations), 1861-1911.

Arranged alphabetically by state. These three cloth bound volumes list claims made by states pertaining to expenses incurred in connection with the American Civil War and the various Indian Wars of the late nineteenth century. Entries include claimant (state), reason for claim, amount of disbursement paid, and the date paid. One volume includes amount of payments made to states with justification for damages and expenses incurred in the American Civil War.

These records illuminate monetary involvement and loss (where claims denied) of the states in these wars. They will be of interest not only to historians but also genealogists because many of the claims were for personal losses.

Volume: 1 cubic foot
WNRC Acc. No.: 217-66F0137, subgroup D

Disposition: PERMANENT. Transfer to the National Archives immediately.

9. Naval Liberty Loan Allotment Abstracts, 1918-1919.

Arranged in alphabetical order by name of Navy personnel. These records are in two binders and list "Abstracts of Allotments" for the Fourth Liberty Loan to Navy Personnel. This program afforded officers and enlisted men of the Navy serving on-board ship and at outlying stations an opportunity to subscribe for Liberty Loan bonds on the same partial payment terms as were offered by banks to its subscribers throughout the country. The bonds were sold to officers and men through their supply officers, and payments were made by an allotment system of the Supplies and Accounts Bureau, Disbursing Division, U. S. Navy. A reference for these records is contained in the Handbook of Federal World War Agencies and Their Records: 1917-1921, page 317.

The liberty bond program was voluntary, and this series is unlikely to constitute a complete list of Navy personnel in 1918. Volume #1 contains more than 25,000 separate name entries which may indicate that the records do contain entries for a significant number of the personnel assigned to these duties during 1918. It should be noted, however, that volume #2 is missing entries for names beginning with McCo to the end of the alphabet. Navy muster rolls for the period provide sufficient documentation of military service and published statistics document the extent of the bond program. These records cover a narrow and incomplete group of persons. II-NNA-1186 made disposable pledge cards and records of payroll deductions for war savings bonds for World War II disposable.

Volume: 4 cubic feet
Accession Number: 217-66C0137, subgroup D

Disposition: TEMPORARY. Destroy upon approval of this schedule.

10. Registry and Index of Army Officer Payments (War Department, 2nd Auditor), 1815-1912.

Registry, consisting of 128 clothbound volumes, of payments to officers with 4 bound volume indexes. Accession consists of two register components. The first component is composed of 7 volumes as follows: Volume 1 (1815-1820) [actually covers the period 1815-1819 and is not original to that period but was copied from an earlier volume in 1912]; Volume 2 (1816-1822) [includes a roster of both officers and enlisted men who did not sign for their pay in the final section of the register, and it has its first entry in 1815]; Volume 3 (1822-1827); Volume 4 (1827-1832); Volume 5 (1832-1836); Volume 6 (1836-1840); and Volume 7 (1841-1860). The second component is composed of 121 volumes (numbering system 1-121) with inclusive dates of 1837-1912. Entries include name of Officer, rank(s), name of paymaster, period of coverage of allotment, date of payment, pay allotment, any hazard/war duty extra allotments, ration allotment, number of servants, number of horses, and pertinent remarks.

The size of the registers vary. The first component has registers which measure on the average 14 x 12 inches. The second component has large folio registers measuring on the average 28 x 20 inches. In both sets, the thickness of the volumes averages 3-4 inches.

The accession also includes the following 4 indexes to Officers pay (militia): Index to Officers Pay (Militia), 2nd Auditor: 1816-1840; Index to Officers Pay (Militia), 2nd Auditor: 1841-1870; Index to Officers Pay (Militia), 2nd Auditor: 1871-1893; and Index to Officers Pay (Militia), 2nd Auditor: 1909-1912. These indexes were created at the time that the registers were being created to cross-reference registers for accounting purposes. Entries are alphabetically arranged by officer's name and include name, rank(s), unit(s), ledger number, and page number.

This series consists of a variety of registers of payments to military officers. The records do provide information about various famous persons (including entries for Winfield Scott, Zachary Taylor, Robert E. Lee, U.S. Grant, and William Hammond) but are not necessarily essential evidence. The fact of the service of the individuals is documented more thoroughly in military service records and muster rolls already accessioned by the National Archives as well as various published registers of officers. Job NC2-217-82-1 disposed of a number of similar volumes including Record of Payments to Volunteer Organizations, 1861-65 (11 volumes) and Record of Payments to Volunteer Units in Indian and other wars, 1817-60 (8 volumes). Paymaster accounts themselves dated after 1861 were made disposable by the National Archives in II-NNA-1186.

Volume: 84 cubic feet

Disposition: TEMPORARY. Destroy upon approval of this schedule.

11. Registry and Index of Payments to Volunteer Officers (Civil War, War Department, 2nd Auditor), 1861-1865.

Registry, consisting of 34 clothbound volumes, of payments to Volunteer Officers with 3 bound volumes of indexes (37 total volumes). Registers are arranged alphabetically by state and regiment (and within regiment loosely by surname). The registers are numbered 1-40 (with a notation on volumes 30 and 37 that there were no volumes 31-36 created). Entries include regiment, name of Officer, rank(s), name of paymaster, period of coverage of allotment by 12 monthly columns, year (down by year 1861-1866), and special remarks such as rank at discharge, date of discharge or resignation, date of death (including battle name), and, when transferred, the location for referencing new pay information. The average sizes of the registers are 24 x 18 inches. Thickness of the volumes average 3-4 inches each.

This accession includes the following 3 indexes: Index to Volunteer Officers Pay (Civil War), arranged by state, regiment, page, and volume; Index to Volunteer Officers Pay (Civil War), arranged by officer surname, rank, unit, and division; and Index to Volunteer Officers, AQM, Commissaries, Quartermasters, Surgeons, Paymasters (Civil War), arranged alphabetically by surname, page, and rank (includes only references to volume 39 where these are listed separately).

15. State Index to Rolls of Indian Wars (War Department Auditor), 1817-1858.

This bound volume is an index arranged alphabetically by state, therein by name of officer, rank, and regiment. It references the specific register/page number containing pay information.

The ongoing litigation involving many Indian tribes has resulted in both sides of litigations seeking information which NARA sometimes cannot provide. Therefore, any fiscal records relating to Native Americans are important. Tribes, attorneys, and individuals continue on trying to ascertain if the Federal Government made payments to various Indian tribes. Much of this research is being completed for legal purposes.

Disposition: PERMANENT. Transfer to the National Archives immediately.

16. Spruce Production Corporation Contracts and Pay Vouchers, 1918.

These records are payrolls of various lumber companies in the state of Washington performing tasks in connection with the appropriation for "increase for aviation, signal corps 1918". They are related to the "Spruce Corps" [Spruce Production Corporation] who overthrew the "Wobblies" [I.W.W. or Industrial Workers of the World union, centered in the state of Washington during this time period]. The payroll records provide a roster of members of the "Spruce Corps" who worked on spruce production for aircraft during the First World War.

The Pacifica Alaska Region (NRISA) has custody, in RG 18, AAF, of 176 cubic feet of records of the Spruce Production Corporation, Spruce Production Division, and Spruce Production Districts, for 1917-46. These records have more complete documentation of the labor union problems and personnel than the contracts and pay vouchers.

Disposition: TEMPORARY. Destroy upon approval of this schedule.

17. Soldier's Home Expense Accounts, 1907-1928.

Arranged chronologically. Records consist of small envelopes containing applications for fund for current expenses of the "Old Soldier's Home". These files include some statements of accounts, certificates, and correspondence regarding interests earned on the Home's accounts.

This small series is fragmentary and the information is hard to locate, given the chronological arrangement. Internal disposal job NC2-217-82-1 previously authorized the disposal of Registers of Payments to the Soldiers Home, 1861-1913 (13 volumes).

on approval of this schedule.

18. Soldier's Home Expense Accounts, 1915-1925.

Arrangement unclear. Records contain letters received by the Military Division of GAO, usually from the Adjutant General's Office, as well as muster rolls, settlements, and statements pertaining to claims and fines mostly against soldiers who have deserted, who have been court-martialed, or who have been dishonorably discharged. Most of the records are cards containing little information beyond the soldier's name, unit, and nature and amount of claim. Some soldiers' deposit books and discharge orders are included as well. It is not clear why some of these records are marked "Soldier's Home."

Volume: 112 cubic feet
WNRC Acc. No.: 217-66Y0137, subgroup A

Disposition: TEMPORARY. Transfer to National Personnel Records Center (NRP) upon approval of this schedule. NRPMO indicated that these can be used for records reconstruction purposes.

19. Indian Settlements, Second Auditors Office, 1875-1880.

Entries include date, name of Native American or Indian Agent, type of settlement (with remarks), and the amount of the settlement.

The ongoing litigation involving many Indian tribes has resulted in both sides of litigations seeking information which NARA sometimes cannot provide. Therefore, any fiscal records relating to Native Americans are important. Tribes, attorneys, and individuals continue on trying to ascertain if the Federal Government made payments to various Indian tribes. Much of this research is being completed for legal purposes.

21. Miscellaneous Ledgers and Fiscal Records, 1861-1922.

These cloth and leather bound volumes are arranged chronologically, numerically, or alphabetically by settled claim.

This accession consists of several series. Includes index books and registers of claims (some alphabetical, some chronological) indicating the name of claimant, item (or check) lost, date and amount of claim, appropriation from which paid, sometimes the name of vessel on which the loss occurred, etc. Several of these volumes are falling apart due to red rot and will need preservation. Many of the titles highlighted in bold come from either the spines of the volumes or from the standard form information at the top of the pages within the volumes. Most of the volumes are oversized and take up more than one space on a shelf.
