Charge d' Affaires because he had interfered in Bolivian domestic affairs. The Cuban Foreign Ministry apologized and said they would withdraw him. In the same message provisional accreditation was asked for Jose Raul VIERA Linares for the position of Charge d' Affaires in Bolivia. On 24 June 1961, VIERA arrived in La Paz from Santiago, Chile, where he was First Secretary in the Cuban Embassy. It was also stated that VIERA was born in 1930, that his first diplomatic post was Santiago, and that he was a voluntary teacher in Cuba prior to entering the diplomatic service.

3. A fairly reliable source, in a report dated 15 March 1963, said that he met Raul Jose VIERA Linares, a Cuban diplomat assigned to La Paz, in Santiago about 21 February 1963. VIERA is married to Maria Cecilia BERMUDEZ de Viera and they have an infant daughter, Isabel VIERA Bermudez.
4. A report dated 20 March 1963 gave the following information on Jose Raul VIERA Linares:

VIERA replaced Mauro GARCIA Triana as Interim Charge of the Cuban Embassy in La Paz in late June 1961. He held this position until the arrival of Ramon AJA Castro on 13 March 1962. An untested source said that AJA severely criticized VIERA after his arrival and relegated VIERA to Cultural Affairs officer, a relatively low position. Another untested source said that VIERA has been meeting Cuban couriers at the airport which would seem to indicate that VIERA has not climbed back up into the hierarchy of the Cuban Embassy.

5. A report dated 15 October 1963, stated that Jose Raul VIERA Linares was being expelled from La Paz for attempting to get information from the Bolivian Foreign Office by clandestine means. VIERA was expected to leave La Paz by 15 October 1963.
6. An ²⁴official travel manifest revealed that Raul Jose VIERA, his wife, Maria VIERA Cegilla, and his daughter, Isabel VIERA Beatriz, went to Habana from Mexico City on 14 October 1963.
